

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA,
Columbia, SC

Q00 Environmental and Resource Economics

H00 Public Economics

O12 Microeconomic Analyses of Economic Development

The Department of Economics seeks applicants for a position in applied microeconomics to begin in Fall 2010. Rank is open. Applicants should have fields in environmental/resource economics, microeconomic aspects of development, or public economics. Excellence in teaching and a high level of research productivity are expected. The Department of Economics offers Ph.D., Masters, and undergraduate degrees in economics, and supports graduate and undergraduate degrees in business administration offered by the Moore School of Business, in which the department is administratively housed. Because the Moore School has adopted strategic themes related to international business and sustainable enterprise and development, candidates whose research interests lie in these areas will find colleagues with similar interests across the school. The University of South Carolina is located in the city of Columbia, a rapidly growing metropolitan area of more than 650,000 people that offers excellent quality of life including outstanding schools, varied entertainment options, and strong support for the arts. Applications for a senior position should include a curriculum vitae and names of three references. Junior applications should include a curriculum vitae and one or more recent papers, along with three letters of recommendation. Applications should be submitted online at <https://econjobmarket.org/>. The position requires a doctoral degree or ABD. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities or decisions for qualified persons on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation or veteran status. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina is an AA/EEO employer. See Work@Moore website: <http://www.moore.sc.edu/about/workmoore> for information regarding this and other positions. CONTACT: Henry Chappell, Economics Recruiting Committee, Department of Economics, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC 29208. Application deadline: December 11, 2009.
